“You will miss the clowns but not the circus”

With over three decades at DDK, Michael Rubin serves as a Tax Partner and member of the firm’s executive team. He plays a key role in shaping DDK’s long-term goals and strategic planning, while collaborating closely with human resources to foster a supportive, growth-focused culture. Michael also acts as the firm’s liaison to its international association, DFK, extending DDK’s global reach.

His areas of practice include taxation, accounting, financial reporting, and strategic planning for owners and shareholders of closely held businesses. He specializes in advising high-net-worth individuals, professional service firms such as medical and law practices, and clients in the sports and entertainment industries.

Michael is a trusted voice on tax legislation and reform. Through The Rubin Report, he provides timely tax updates and insights to clients, colleagues, and the broader public. His dedication to clear communication and proactive guidance reflects his client-first approach and passion for the profession.

He is motivated by creating a positive, supportive work environment that encourages professional development across the firm.

Beyond client service, Michael has held leadership roles in a 501(c) nonprofit organization, contributing to governance, operations, and community initiatives.

Outside the office, Michael enjoys warm weather, traveling, and spending time with family and friends, including combining those interests by joining his favorite teams on road trips.
