“Helping clients
succeed”

Nick Nesi is an accomplished accountant and attorney who joined DDK as a partner more than a decade ago. He utilizes his legal background, tax and accounting expertise to apply federal, state and local tax laws to each client’s unique business and industry needs. Nick advises clients on a broad range of tax matters, particularly those applicable to commercial and residential real estate groups, high-tech businesses, distribution companies and high net worth (HNW) individuals.

He is widely recognized for his deep knowledge of tax controversy and dispute resolution matters, tax restructuring opportunities, and other high-level tax consulting services for domestic and international clients. His work includes federal, state, and local tax consulting, complex tax audits, protests and appeals, and transactional tax planning.

Previously, Nick had served as a tax partner at a national accounting firm, and this background permits him to help businesses navigate the shifting tax landscape with pragmatic, proactive advice.

Professionally, Nick has chaired the NYS Society of CPA’s Multistate tax committee, been a member of the AICPA State and Local Technical Resource Panel, served as an editor for Thomson Reuters tax publications and a speaker at Lorman and Strafford tax seminars. Outside of work, Nick enjoys spending time with his three daughters and their spouses, practicing his swing in his batting cage, traveling, and walking with his dog through a variety of parks and nature preserves.
