Audit and attestation engagements are key areas of Leonard Nakrin's practice. His extensive responsibilities include heading the firm's assurance and quality control department, providing partner review of workpapers and financial statements, developing and monitoring the CPE program, practice development and maintaining client relationships.

Non-profit organizations, commercial real estate firms, manufacturing, wholesale distribution firms, retail and service organizations are among the high profile industries he serves.

"I enjoy working with people both on a professional and personal level," says Leonard, who, like all of DDK's partners, stays on top of the accounting industry's constantly evolving guidelines. "Since the accounting profession is constantly changing, I am always learning. This keeps my mind stimulated. There is something new and challenging each and every day."

Len joined DDK with more than 15 years of accounting experience, including work in public accounting for a small New York CPA firm and as a tax manager for a boutique firm.

This varied background helped him grow into a mature accounting professional with strong communication skills. "The experience I obtained and the areas of tax and accounting that I was exposed to made me a well-rounded accountant," he says. "In addition, I gained experience working with clients, their employees and other staff accountants."

Len enjoys a number of active and sedentary recreational activities - from reading in his spare time to travel and hiking.
