Since joining DDK in 1988, Michael has advanced through the ranks to his current position managing DDK's tax department, where he supervises workflow and scheduling, often working in tandem with Human Resources.

Taxation, accounting, financial reporting services and related planning for members and shareholders of closely held businesses are among his key areas of practice. Michael's responsibilities also include client services for wholesalers, professional and financial services firms, music and entertainment industry clients and startup firms.

His varied, challenging workload- along with the task of mastering constantly changing tax laws- keeps him invigorated after more than 27 years with the firm. "Every year is like a big puzzle with multiple pieces. The challenge is to get all the pieces to fit properly," Mike says.

"I'm constantly inspired to help the firm's clients succeed by encouraging our staff to be the best they can be."

Away from the office, this busy partner enjoys traveling, warm weather activities and spending free time with family and friends.
